

AUGUST

BUILDING RELATIONSHIPS & COMMUNITY FROM THE START

First This, Then That: Using Now/Next Boards to Support Transitions

Transitions can be challenging for young children. Simple visual tools like Now/Next boards can make a big difference. This blog explores how educators can use these supports to build smoother routines and help children feel more confident moving through their day

DIY Now/Next Board

Simply download and print, or click through to customize the template to make this resource just right for your setting.

Routines that Build Connection

Infographic offering strategies to help educators shape daily moments that reflect children's voices & perspectives.

Frozen Loose Parts Treasures

Keep cool with this engaging activity encouraging curiosity, fine motor development, and critical thinking.

How to Foster Resilience in Infants and Toddlers

Explore this insightful guide for educators and caregivers from our friends at Zero to Three.

Leading by Design: Making Values Visible in Early Learning Spaces

The spaces we create tell a story about what we value. This blog invites early learning leaders to look closely at their environments and to consider how each choice reflects and reinforces the heart of their program

BECKER'S